

Decide on the Spot: Experimental models of colorectal cancer!

The latest Decide on the Spot article by UEG Web Editor Rui Castro focuses on colorectal cancer (CRC), the third most frequent cancer in men and the second most frequent in women. Recent years have seen significant advances in the development of experimental models for CRC research, but can you pinpoint which model is a hot topic right now? Read the background information, make your choice and then leave a comment and your answer. The author of our favourite comment will be given free access to the UEG Week 24/7 Pathway Collection of their choice! .
